

Nominations Slate

Vice Chair for Emerging Leadership and Development

Daniel Schaban

Daniel Schaban is a committed and dynamic leader in Jewish youth engagement and development. Currently pursuing a Master's in Simulation Sciences at RWTH Aachen, with an academic background in Business Informatics from the University of Cologne, Daniel pairs technical acumen with deep communal involvement. Since 2021, he has served as a madrich and later as mazkir with UpJ-Netzer (Germany), leading national and international Jewish youth camps and initiatives. His leadership has included organizing Germany's first international Netzer summer camp and fostering cross-border collaborations with youth from Israel, Italy, the Netherlands, Spain, and Sweden.

Daniel represents the Union for Progressive Judaism in Germany at the EUPJ Executive Board and holds board positions both within the UpJ and the Gescher LaMassoret congregation in Cologne. Fluent in German, Russian, and English, and passionate about empowering the next generation of Jewish leaders, Daniel brings a rare blend of grassroots experience and strategic vision to the European stage.